

Experience Mali

Siby - Mandé

The village of Siby is located at only 45 km from Mali's capital Bamako on the road to Guinea. Popular with expats for a short break and still less known amongst travelers Siby makes for a great place to spend a few days.

Siby has a calm and pleasant atmosphere. The village is surrounded by nature, including forests and impressive rock formations. Whether you are looking for some quiet time or for some action, Siby is a wonderful place to go.

What to see and do in and around Siby?

- visit the Arch de Kamadjan and learn about the history of Mandé
- stroll the colorful Saturday market
- visit the cave, where water drips from the rocks
- go rock climbing
- set out on a mountain bike ride through the Siby surroundings
- visit the shea butter women's cooperative, where the rich shea butter tradition is kept alive - several all natural home-made products for sale
- enjoy a bath at the nearby falls
- go hiking

If you're around in December: don't miss out on FESCAURI, the festival with music and culture, with special attention for the cauri shells.

Wanting to explore more of the Mandé area? Siby makes for a great starting point of your trip. Set out on a multiple day hike or mountain bike trip or explore the area by car.
